Invitation

On behalf of the Asian and Oceanian Association of Neurology and local host, the Australian and New Zealand Association of Neurologists, we have great pleasure in inviting you to attend the 13th Asian Oceanian Congress of Neurology which will be held in Melbourne, Australia from 4-8 June 2012.

The Asian and Oceanian Association of Neurology (AOAN) is pleased to be staging the next Congress at the Melbourne Convention & Exhibition Centre, Australia in June 2012. This Congress is returning to Melbourne for the first time since 1966.

The AOAN is committed to promoting and fostering on an international scale the advancement, exchange and diffusion of information and ideas relating to the nervous system and encouraging scientific researches in neurological problems. It also hosts the Asian and Oceanian Congress of Neurology (AOCN) once every four years.

AOCN 2012 will cover a diverse range of neurological topics and include world-renowned speakers. The high quality scientific program will also be complemented by an equally exciting social program, allowing delegates the opportunity to network and catch up with colleagues and friends as well as discover the unique and exciting parts of Melbourne. The nation's fashion and sporting capital, Melbourne is a dynamic city combining the friendliness of its people with an added sense of style and culture.

We look forward to welcoming you to marvellous Melbourne for what promises to be a Congress to remember.

Melbourne

Your host city

Millions of people choose to visit Melbourne each year – and for very good reasons.

First, it's one of Australia's most exciting destinations. A large modern city with a rich heritage, it bustles and pumps with a unique fusion of culture, cuisine and beauty. It's also Australia's sporting capital and the heartland of the nation's fashion industry. Melbourne has it all and that's why visitors from all over the world flock to enjoy every one of its bits and pieces.

A lazy stroll around town will have you looking up and down and you'll be enthralled by so many eye-catching elements. If it's architecture you're interested in, look up: the buildings form a rare collection of Gothic, Neo classical and Victorian styles. Look higher up and the tips of the breathtaking skyscrapers pierce the blue, blue skies.

At street level, a seemingly endless network of lanes and alleys bursts to life daily with hundreds of cafes, bars and coffee houses. Your food options are only limited by your taste buds. Every international cuisine is plated up with unparalleled excellence and the dining offerings keep the fussiest gastronome more than content. The food from all over the world is a reflection of the cosmopolitan nature of the city – it's a true and proud expression of multiculturalism in a vibrant metropolis.

Prepare to be impressed with what Melbourne has to offer. It's not just any old city with a big convention centre – it's a must-see destination in its own right.

CONGRESS VENUE

The AOCN2012 Congress will be held in the stunning and new Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre.

The centrepiece of Melbourne's new South Wharf development is the Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre (MCEC) – Australia's most versatile convention and exhibition facility.

Visitors looking for a truly Melbourne experience will find it encapsulated here at the centre – art, entertainment, culture, food and wine all set among an absolutely stunning, award-winning architectural design.

As the first, and only, '6 Star Green Star' environmentally rated convention centre in the world, the venue represents world leadership in best practice, innovation and sustainability and continues to raise standards to new heights in technology, imaginative catering and service options.
